A story of hope, to inspire you to never give up on your dreams, despite the challenges you may face
- SHAUN BARTLETT

He is one of the best players that South Africa has ever produced - amazing speed, balance and that deadly left foot – QUINTON FORTUNE

Delron Buckley: My Life is the inspiring story of a young man who against the odds left behind the comfort of his family and the land of his birth, to successfully seek out his dream overseas. Despite the many difficulties he faced in a foreign land he rose to become a respected and recognisable figure in world football.

It's an amazing story of him growing up in Durban, South Africa to earning a professional contract for Bochum FC as a 16 year old in the premier German Bundesliga. At only 20 years old he represented South Africa (Bafana Bafana) achieving 76 caps, playing at the 1998, 2002 World Cups and 2000 Olympic Games.

He has faced many challenges, being raised by his single mum and shares openly of having to run for his life from gangsters and overcoming the temptation of drugs and alcohol in his teen years. His rescue coming through his football talent which took him to also play for clubs like Borussia Dortmund, FC Basel, Arminia Bielefeld and receiving interest from England's, Everton, Hull and Blackburn Rovers.

Delron Buckley is well known for his dazzling runs down the left wing, leaving fans captivated and enthralled – this book will do the same.

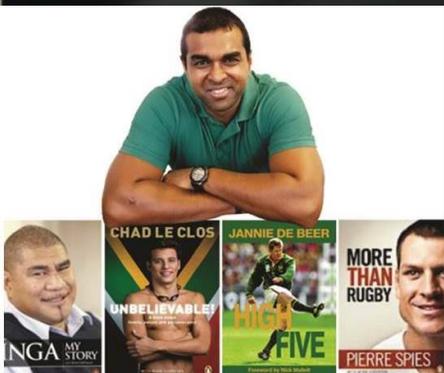

After living in Germany for 18 years, he returned to South Africa in 2012 with his wife and 3 children. Retired from playing, he currently coaches to give back to the game that has given him so much.

Delron shares openly about:

1. Challenges of growing up without a dad
2. Frustrations as a player representing South Africa and advice to improve football in South Africa
3. Going through depression in Dortmund and advice for players
4. Being poisoned by someone known in 2005

Writer Myan Subrayan is also a speaker and life coach to businesses and sports teams. He speaks regularly there, and to schools and churches.
